Sounds like you may need to invest in a DVD burner. I think the intelligent purchase would be two, three or four identical 80 Gigabyte HDD. I'm not positive how much of the Internet will fit on 320 Gigabytes, But I'm sure it would hold everything I've downloaded this year, and last year, and the year before that. It just makes sense when you start to figure RAID arrays. It's all about options buddy.
