No. I have a life, and sometimes it sucks.

I do make my own cheats, and they kick ass more than any other cheat on the internet today.

I played for about 2 years before I started using cheats. I got pretty damn good too. The game is just funner when you have cheats. I don't do it to piss people off or anything like that, it is just funner and more interesting. With the cheat I have made, you can nearly play Ren normally, or you blow away everyone and everything* on the map in less than a few seconds. Try and do that with your pansy-ass 'final renegade'. I haven't used it in a while, but there you have it.

*Excluding buildings and terrain.

Im actually supriessed that Im not banned yet...

More "fun" at the expense of everyone elses fun. Don't you have any sense of decency to know that it's wrong? The only way I can see someone who cheats not caring about ruining other players fun is the people who like to piss people off. Seeing as how you continued to cheat on more than one occasion, I can only assume that you don't care that you gain advantages over people. If you had a conscious you would care that you did ruin other people's fun. But... seeing as how things never really change with cheaters, and they never really get more mature, i'd have to say it won't change anything, and that's why I'm not going to make a huge fuss over it. As far as I know, cheaters don't get banned on the forums. Even one of the people who worked in the cheat community who made cheats and released them didn't get banned. Apparently he stopped making them, but that's no real guarantee. Not to say he didn't. It's quite possible he stopped cheating, but not very likely.
