
Subject: Re: unable to connect to westwood on line
Posted by snipler on Tue, 29 Aug 2006 22:54:24 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Olaf van der Spek wrote on Tue, 29 August 2006 15:38Crimson wrote on Tue, 29 August 2006 15:57Well, now that you know that your hosting provider feels it to be perfectly reasonable to have over a day of complete downtime followed by 3 and a half more days of this alleged GBIC flaking out, it seems a GREAT time to find a new host with a higher committment to delivering to its customers. If my host had scheduled a 24 hour downtime or even had a 24 hour UNexpected downtime, I would have been out the door as soon as I could yank my files off the server. In this day and age of the Internet, there is NO excuse for any provider to deliver that sort of service. We're definately looking into the option of changing hosts.

Im still not hearing any remorse. What the fuck is it going to take for you to get your ass into gear. You are a community leader, and so far, you havn't taken responsibility for anything, or provided us with any options or ideas. You've been spiteful, non-responsive and generally unfriendly to us.
