

---

Subject: the draft

Posted by Duke of Nukes on Thu, 22 May 2003 04:12:58 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

ok...to get away from the war, although this will most likely turn into a discussion flaming me and saying I hate the president, I thought I'd start a thread about the draft. I have never heard any of the good points...and as is right now, I dont see how you could be for it. to me, it seems blatantly un-American. The draft is being forced to fight for ideals you dont believe in. I know if you can prove your a pacifist...they'll just send you to a hospital or non-combat position...but how can you say we're entitled to our own opinions...but we have to fight for those of the country even if we dont believe in them?

---