Duke,

There is no draft. In all reality there will probably never be a draft again. Also, most countries in the world require you to serve 18 months to 2 years in their military. So what brought this up? Your 3rd world books are out of date. Get a new book on America and read about the strongest and one of the largest ALL VOLUNTEER MILITARIES in the world.

If people value their freedom they will join the military to help spread the gift of freedom. If they are lazy leaches like your self and would rather have other people die for them, I guess that is their right. Why is it, every time the US has any kind of a conflict, the anti war/conflict groups start the "Draft Re-opened" rumor? Reason: They have no other ammuniton. They try to terrorize the public with slogans like; "Another Vietnam" and "Draft Re-opened"! They have no real facts, so they prey on the fears of the weak.

I served because I love my freedom and my country. I did not join for college money. As a matter of fact I got my 2 degrees with my own money. Not the GI bill.
