EvilWhiteDragon wrote on Sun, 10 September 2006 07:24Thank you for your trust in Blackintel :\

It does the following:
Fix the wall lag, contains reserved slots and allows you to increase/decrease Server FPS.

As it are all ASM hacks, they wont work on Linux unless you would port the dll. If you want we might be able to port it.

Heh I meant no disrepect to Blackintel. I do not install unknown binaries from any source that I have no information on. The information you just gave certainly helps. Are there any other features it provides? I have no desire to change the server FPS, unless lowering it has some sort of benefit. The wall lag fix sounds interesting though, how does it work? Is it similar to turning on client physics optimization?