

---

Subject: Re: DDoS Attacks

Posted by xptek on Thu, 21 Sep 2006 21:04:35 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Crimson wrote on Thu, 21 September 2006 16:10 I'm thinking I might have to locate another hosting option for the sites I host. They don't deserve to suffer this mess. At least between my box tweaks and ThePlanet's DDoS mitigation, we are still here. I'm doing the best I can to keep service up for you guys.

BlackIntel, I'm very sorry that this happened just as I started hosting you. I've had a couple years without problems and I never would have offered to host you if I knew this was going to happen. Just ask the APB guys.

If you have any extra cash lying around, I'd suggest getting a server at Gigeservers or Staminus (Gigeservers if you can justify paying a bit extra). Both have excellent DDoS mitigation. ThePlanet's is decent, but you can still tell when the forums are getting hit.

---