Pay attention, I brought this up the first time the relevance to the rule being made was questioned. It was my first argument, and you failed to dispute it then. Acting like it was just done after someone has failed doesn't work.

Regardless, it doesn't justify anything. It just makes it reality.

Quote:Again, I don't know what the hell you're talking about... you ask the most idiotic questions.

It's quite simple actually.

You claim you have been banned, yet you obviously are not banned because you can still post.

I apologies if that's hard to understand, but I can't make it any more basic than that.
