"soon" in a business that get paid to do work every day may mean a month or so. (Unofficial definition, of course)

But expand that to those who work on it in their spare time, around normal lives. If all they have is a few hours a week to work on it, around their real lives, "soon" could be longer than that.

I've found the word soon to mean moreso nearness to completion, not length of time.
