
Subject: Old news but still funny

Posted by terminator 101 on Thu, 12 Oct 2006 04:31:36 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

<http://www.gamespot.com/news/6141653.html>

Quote:New York woman was the winning bidder of an eBay auction for a new Xbox 360...at least that's what she thought. According to Web site TechWeb.com, the buyer inquired about the description of the item up for grabs--"Photo of picture of Xbox." The seller responded that it was a typo, and shipped out the winning item. Days later, an envelope arrived with a picture of an Xbox 360--that's it, just a piece of paper.

Her winning bid was more than $600. The Xbox 360 retails for $299 for a basic package, and $399 for the premium package

I know this is old but I just learned about it, and I laughed for hours.

Have you heard of any other such cases? I am sure same thing will happen with PS3.

That reminds me...

Anyone wants to buy my photo of PS3? Whoops, maybe I made typo
