gg Omega.

This is interesting to hear again. Seems any time someone just brings up UN posts like this follows. I know most of you that commented. I also understand you have an image of UN that will never change. That is fine. However, that image and make-up of the clan has changed. The members of today are not that same has before. Some of our more aggressive members have left. We have a large group of non-UN mods now. They are somewhat green and do their best. Do they make the best decisions always? No they do not. But it is like that everywhere, I know because I play all over and see it.

Bottom line is UN will always be different because it is a "G" rated server with an "PG-13" rating on the game. Its our decision to run it that way. Those that do not agree have the solution, stay away.
