As the 2006 Hurricane season winds down, I just wanted to voice my opinion that Global warming must obviously be over.

Since Global warming has caused the really bad hurricanes over the last few years (remember how many named storms we had last year) and we almost didn't even hear the word hurricane in the news this year, I can only conclude that our lack of hurricanes was due to the fact that global warming has come to and end.

Science and weather patterns are so easy to understand these days, how wonderful.
