This is very interesting considering she was not involved at all with this work and both her and Saberhawk were strictly supposed to not be discussing this even with the majority of the rest of the staff, not with the testers, and certainly not with random outsiders.

Was she cheap? Trust me, she's gone through more hardware in the past month than I have in the past 3 years, but I'm the one who needs it more. If you're looking for somebody to help out in exchange for leaks, at least try to do things the official way next time and maybe get the money to somebody who needs it and would use it properly.

Paradox's monthly purchases are getting out of hand to be honest, and it's irritating to find out you've been funding her in exchange for leaks.
