i was woking on a shop model in renx today, and then the program froze and said if you want to attempt to save. this normally happens, and if i do click ok it says its failed the save. big woop-always happens with me, and eveything works normally as soon as i reopen gmax/renx. but for some reason i cant open it anymore, it says file open failed. how the heck can i debug it?
i put tons of woks into it (well, actually just this morning, but i dont want to make it all over again).

any programs to debug it?
