The evidence makes it clear to believe that the WTCs destruction was planned by the government. Some people may find it hard to believe simply because they don't want to believe it, some people are just closed minded

When my Online Hospital opens, we will be taking a lot of patients in.

The evidence is fairly sound for debunking that particular conspiracy theory, yes. But it is still necessary to question things about WTC.

I think you should stop trying to come across as being above everyone else though. Especially with that stupid word 'asswiser' that you coined. The term is troll and there are varying degrees of trolls. For example Jball is a more intelligent troll than most who can back up things with evidence. Where as Dave Anderson is just an arrogant jerk troll who isn't quite suited for the roll of being a troll.

Man....I'm no better than anyone, what is better?...exactly. That's just not me. Since doing something like that is what i would consider an Asswiser, that's the last thing I would want to do lol. I don't judge that way. The only reason I use perfect grammar and spelling is because since I speak of the Asswisers, it sometimes makes them angry and when they get angry they target me, and one of the first things an Asswiser will do before attacking is look for where to attack, your spelling and grammar is one of the first things they look at to attack.

Let me tell you a tale!

When I first posted here, I did not think that they would attack me in grammar/spelling, So...I didn't worry about it. STRAIGHT AWAY the first Asswiser by the name of "Dave Mason" attacks, and guess what he attacked? That's right my grammar and spelling. So watch out for them!

I noticed you said something about Dave Anderson, he wasn't the same when I first knew him, he seemed pretty normal. Afterwards he made an "attempt" to culture himself, most people do this over a long period of time, Dave Anderson did it quite quickly, that's if you consider him cultured. He is now a business man that runs a successful company.
