You could modify brenbot's custom commands plugin to do that as well, all you need to do is change it from outputting a message to sending a snda command to the FDS.... I might update the plugin to include a section for that anyway now that I think about it...