There are a few models around but they are not boned or ready for the game. You would need to get a modder to make them playable in game. I think Madtone made a few textured ones but there is a lot of untextured stuff around. Would be a good idea if they were made useable in game. I am not entirely sure on the process of putting them in the game but i don't thik it is that easy because you have the hand positions and 3rd person views.
