(I a quiet voice) Just be careful Renegade is still being sold, and EA is everywhere, needless to say, I do not think their ready to have a grand parade for the person that makes renegade on a different engine, and takes their remaining customers.

Well all the mods people are making be able to run on this engine (although, even if they were compatible with this new engine, I don't think that I would convert them to it, because then all the work Black Hand Studios is doing would be in vain. Whats the point of improving the REAL engine if you are just going to switch it to a different engine).
