Yes you are right, thats why I was wondering if the trees in the Seattle airport had any of those things. Alot of the trees I see around here(my school campus) have none of those things. The legend you quoted is just that...a legend. Yes its a sweet story but even with your statement of 700AD it is still around 700 years after the birth of Jesus. That would be like us today recording the events of the Hundred Years War.

Almost every topic that gets opened, you manage to get the bible into it, why?
So I decided to search the forums for flood3d's bible references you say are in "almost every topic." Why? Because I think you are full of shit...anyway only found two..this topic and a topic on the movie "The Passion of the Christ"

The legend!! THE LEGEND????? Thats the fucking bible that you talk about. Its a legend.

Aghhhhh its type specific to a person????????

You misunderstood me, almost every reply on this forum, regarding Flood mentions the bible.

Certainly not, this one and only topic.

However, some of us are more mature and read, analyse and decide from more than one place.

That does not make us bad people, nor does it make you a bad person for believing in a simple book.
