
Subject: Re: Beat this X-ray vision, Superman
Posted by cheesesoda on Mon, 11 Dec 2006 22:30:24 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

warranto wrote on Mon, 11 December 2006 17:24: Bascially it comes down to the eternal question:

"How much freedom are you willing to give up to be safe?"
I like my privacy. Driving is far more dangerous than flying is. I don't really know of a more safe mode of transportation than flying. There are people who are going to intentionally cause automobile accidents in insurance fraud. There's road rage that creates accidents because someone lost a nut when someone forgot to use a turn signal.

You can't eliminate danger, and I'm not going to give the government any more of my freedom when it comes to flying if they don't try to fix the other, more dangerous, modes of transportation.
