
Subject: Re: Marijuana

Posted by Ryu on Sun, 14 Jan 2007 02:52:44 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

j_ball430 wrote on Sat, 13 January 2007 19:48Tobacco is too a drug...

WikipediaA drug is any biological substance, synthetic or non-synthetic, that is taken for non-dietary needs. It is usually synthesized outside of an organism, but introduced into an organism to produce its action. That is, when taken into the organisms body, it will produce some effects or alter some bodily functions (such as relieving symptoms, curing diseases or used as preventive medicine or any other purposes).

Tobacco relaxes you as well as act like an appetite suppressant. It's a drug.

If you're addicted to tobacco, Then yes, when you're stressed out, It feels like a smoke can relax you.

If you don't smoke and your stressed out, and have a cig, You will most probably caught your lungs out then feel any more relaxed.

a cigarette has 100's of chemicals that kill you than relax you. lol tobacco is from the plant so it could relax you, not exactly sure on that one.
