It shows everything is connected, but when i go on my other computer, with the router adapter, it shows its connected also...

but when i click internet explorer, nothing.

Says i dont have internet.

and i need suggestions?

I get this problem a lot from people at work. It can be 2 things. First thing it can be is that there is a problem communicating some of the routers signle by your computer, try re-installing the drivers. I have another idea of what it could be, but is your connection to the router wireless?
