Most servers disallow people to be in IRC and the game at the same time.

I wouldn't personally view this as a cheat, and I really don't think he made this to give himself an advantage over others either. However I can see how this would upset some people since it could provide an advantage. Even if you did know what character/weapon someone had, there's no way to know exactly where that person is at the same time unless you can already see them on your screen.
