MMOFPS = RPG. In RPG's you, by definition of a ROLE PLAYING GAME, take a specific role and play out a chapter in that persons life. Only a complete idiot would argue that it's not an RPG.

In FPS's, you have specific objectives that you need to acomplish. it goes by a round system and is made specifically where people aren't given an advantage just because they play more often. I prefer to play a game that takes skill to be able to play as opposed to having to play at least 3 hours a day.
