Well last I heard they were doing Beta testing and their GSA server for the beta normally has a few people in, who I guess are the testers. The mod is still active for certain, you may have noticed the release of the scripts.dll version 1.2 today, which contains the scripts for the reborn mod, which must have been requested so they must still be doing work on it. It's looking good so far, also RenAlert is looking good.

OneShell have set up a dedicated RenAlert server on GSA recently so you can go and play. GSA you may say? download the "All Seeing Eye" for free and connect to the server using that program, it's really simple and no GSA interface. Also other advantages of using the GSA server is no long wait for WOL to load the PKG files, no zero bug after playing as Renegade is re loaded. I had a game there and it was quite good, the mod needs a little more work yet but it is coming along nicely.
