Duke of Nukesl worked fast food for 2 years...your type is the type who I want to beat the shit out of. They treat you like a VIP because you probably got that kid in a shitload of trouble and they dont want to get fired.

Chances are that if you were speaking clearly to the cashier...then it was either A) made wrong from the back or B) bagged wrong...both of which wouldn't be that kids fault. Mistakes are made...and it's hard to make everyone happy. If you didn't want what you got, then go up and let them know...dont yell at them.

Okay... So what if the kid got fired? Who would really give a s.h.i.t? Will the kid care? Probably not becuae McDonalds is probably paying him minimum wage, and he could find a much better job than working there. :rolleyes:
