should of taken it back. or got rid of it. your not stealing from the school. your stealing from the community around it. you are also depriving your classmates of a more enjoyable education. you may think that the school will just replace it, but they could of had 2. you wouldn't get "done" for turning it in. i went down that road before, it turned the item in but i didn't say who i got it from. the person who gave it me fucked up and promised to never do it again. he kept his word since
