stick with renx. i have not personally ever touched max, but most things ren supports can be done in renx. its just the scripts that are diff, so some things will take a little longer.

$1000s compared to half the tools and free.

i know due to browsing 3dsmax tuts knowing half of them can be done with gmax.

unless someone is dum enough to post a torrent and take full responsibility of everyone downloading it and also suppling fake authontication, dont get it. anyway, all your work you have done on gamx would be wasted unless you export absolouteley everthing and import absolutely everything. anyway, you would lose the materials, and i think also if you have unwrapped anything, your a gonna.

boo 3dsmax
