like that has to be? For socialism it certainly not, it just makes that the most ppl in a country agree on helping those that might just lost thier job without it being their own fault, or help ppl with handicaps etc. It does not have much to do with liberty, the only thing I can think of it the amount of taxes you pay.

Mostly being poor isn't a choice so it shouldnt be treated like one.

Besides, Bush tends to give up a lot of personal freedom in the struggle against terrorists. Which is just what terrorists want, and the government, as the goverment will get more power and the terrorists has scared the hell out of ppl.
