

---

Subject: Re: Confession of a Sinner.

Posted by cheesesoda on Mon, 12 Mar 2007 19:36:50 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

You know, if YOU were being mature about this whole thing, you wouldn't need to get a new nick, change your IP, and try and slip under the radar. That's not leaving your past behind, that's avoiding it and avoiding others that think poorly of the decisions that you've made. Man up to the fact that you've made a mistake and you have to deal with the distrust and ridicule that come as a consequence to your actions. We're not the ones at fault here; you are.

Mex had every right to say what he did. I do not know the extent of your MSN conversation, but what he said on here is completely rational. I think you're just sour at the fact that you turned someone who was your friend against you because you made a poor decision. Don't act like he's supposed to be perfectly accepting of the situation. Betrayal is a hard thing to get over.

---