I honestly don't really think there are "renforums" players.. There's n00bstories players, there's cw players, there's jelly players.. but "renforums" players? I think most of the people that post here are a part of another community.. I don't think that there are people here that play together that aren't a part of another community tbh.. That's one reason why its Renegade Public Forums, its for everyone basically.
