U think all this is crazy u should see whats going on with my school they were planing on rebuilding it (since it was built in 1910 or something like that) and now they put it off because one person didn't want to do it they just wanted to move it but (i think it was like 6 votes for it to 4 or 5 against it i think) the problem is there that a property for it wont be available for 7-10 years, and anyways there gonna have another meeting next week i think.
now tell me thats not screwed up
