now i think i can login but there is another problem. As i said in my previous message, I have bought a brand new "The First Decade". The problem is that, i have uninstalled the old "original" Renegade and installed all of the games in "The First Decade" including Renegade. When I try to login, I got the message of the day, but I realize that the game logged in with my old nickname however giving the warning of "wrong password". I looked up in the forum for changing passwords but non of those work (esspecilly password reseting command in the "CHAT" menu because I don't have any nicknames registered with the Renegade came with "TFD"). so all I need is that to erase my old nickname and create a new one but I don't know if there are any other ways because I tried anything written (posted) on this forum. I know this issue may be boring you but I really can't understand why all of these things happened...
