

---

Subject: OT: Who do you think is funnier? Homer Simpson or Kramer?

Posted by Yano on Mon, 16 Jun 2003 17:08:18 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

"I need the secure packaging of Jockeys. My boys need a house!"

- Kramer, in "The Chinese Woman"

"There's nothing holding me in place. I'm flipping, I'm flopping."

- Kramer, unhappy with boxer shorts, in "The Chinese Woman"

"The carpet sweeper is the biggest scam perpetrated on the American public since one-hour martinizing."

- Kramer, in "The Suicide"

"Hey, I'm telling you, the pig-man is alive. The government has been experimenting with pig-men since the 50's."

"They're probably creating a whole army of pig-warriors."

"Believe me, somewhere in this hospital the anguished oink of pig-man cries out for help."

"If the pig-man had a car, he'd give you a ride."

"Hey, we're not talking about a manicure. Imagine, this is gonna be his first memory of his parents, just standing there while some stranger cuts off a piece of his manhood and then serves a catered lunch!"

- Kramer, in "The Bris"

"No doctors for me. A bunch of lackeys and yes-men all towing the company line. Plus, they botched my vasectomy."

- Kramer, in "The Andrea Doria"

"I'm like ice, buddy. When I don't like you, you've got problems."

- Kramer, in "The Parking Spot"

"They don't have a decent piece of fruit at the supermarket. The apples are mealy, the oranges are dry... I don't know what's going on with the papayas!"

- Kramer, in "The Mango"

"Who's gonna turn down a Junior Mint? It's chocolate, it's peppermint -- it's delicious!"

- Kramer, in "The Junior Mints"

Kramer Rocks!!

---