I can't believe that the purpose of this topic is to figure out how to stumble through disneyworld in a drug-eneduced haze. I never got to go an a vacation as a kid, or ever. I've never been to disneyworld, or any other theme park, or any "vacation" to speak of.

I'm just saying I sure wish I had a chance of having a good memory of some place like disneyworld, and I mean a memory of the sights, sounds, the fun of the actual event. Not some acid flashback haze of drooling on myself while I sat on a bench watching the blur of colors and muffled sounds.

You can get a buzz anytime, and guess what, they all feel the same, so pull your head out of the sand and enjoy the experience for what it is, you can always get wasted afterwards.

You only get one chance of making a good memory...I lost that chance by not even getting to go, I'd hate to see you screw yours up.
