Because, you don't know what your life is going to bring. You could die in a car crash tomorrow (whether or not you abuse drugs and alcohol) or you could meet someone wonderful who changes your life. Then you have children and your drug use catches up with you and you die at 45, missing out on your children and grandchildren's lives because you just HAD to get high when you were in your formative years.

Yeah, you could die in a car crash or you could take exquisite care of yourself and die of a heart attack at 37. But, only a retard would explicitly damage their delicate organs and brain cells for a short-term high. There are much safer ways to get a high... an orgasm, accomplishing a goal, helping others, being in love, being successful in your career so you can buy expensive toys and gadgets... spending your youth seeing how badly you can trash your liver and brain is a waste of time and a ridiculously poor investment in the rest of your life.
