Oh I bet the firearms chief is just gonna love all this extra paperwork. This won't do a thing except increase the already lengthy process by which PAL/POL certified people can access firearms. There is absolutely nothing that an interview with the FC will accomplish that won't already been painfully evident in your certification.

I bet this'll cost a few dozens of bucks to schedule as well. Oh well, I'm already a gun owner here so this doesn't affect me in the slightest.
