Even if it was like Earth, we can never go there...let alone settle there. We don't have the spacecrafts and we certainly will die trying to reach it. Humans can stay in space for a certain time only...staying more will result in radiation and muscle loss and a whole crapload of other stuff.

But I think this new planet is a flop...everything is a guess and the findings are only based on inconclusive information. It sure sounds exiting but we need more proof.

Lol! They said the same thing about Venus...and how it was just like Earth and had water and life and was like paradise. And then they found out that it was a Methane-filled hell...lol! So we will never know for sure about this new planet without solid proof.
