OK, I trust ebayer and have bought from them before so I thought I would do a comparison using the cheapest available equivalent components, wasn't sure about any cables I might need (IDE, power etc) that might add a few £'s but it is a minute price difference and I know this system will perform well for gaming (36.2fps for Prey test):

Looks like I will stick with it unless anyone else has suggestions for other companies (I use ebay but don't trust the component or build quality of machines on there & overclockers came out a lot more expensive)
