So you got a case with a PSU already in it? Do you know what brand the PSU is? I'd recommend a GOOD powersupply and not just "one" that comes with the case. Investing in the powersupply is a investment that will make your system stable for 3 years and onward. Not just that, it will also make sure ( if you would like) you can overclock that E6300 baby to lets say a 3 Ghz --> stable.
