* Case sensitive URL's

* No www. on sub domains

Other than the above, GoDaddy is awesome.

case sensitive url's is the only real bad thing, but im used to it.

them. They have some limitations with their features and are kind new to the webhosting scene.

They're a great company (I buy all my domains through them) but I'm not too fond of their webhosting. Then again, nothing beats free. =D

If anyone is in need of some space outside of his offer let me know and I'll hook you up. Just PM me for details. Control panel included.

not to be rude, but I'd appreciate if you'd make your own thread if you wanna offer up some free webspace. sticking it here just seems to me to be, well, rude.

on another note, I've been hosted by them for almost 3 years with absolutely no problems and really nice features!

not bad for those who CANNOT afford and will NOT pay for a server box
