RenGuard uses a dynamic encryption routine to secure the communications between the client and master server. We're not stupid enough to communicate in plain text. If you want to create a bypass for RenGuard, first of all don't be stupid enough to ask questions about it in the official support forums, and second, don't be stupid enough to expect that anyone is going to help you here.

Perhaps a RenGuard network ban would be a great way to hinder your progress?
