
Subject: Re: Why fl00d3d is banned for 30 days
Posted by ReNeHiGh on Wed, 13 Jun 2007 00:42:00 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Crimson wrote on Tue, 12 June 2007 19:35: So basically you are saying that you don't really know who I've banned but I probably haven't posted a reason why all the time? Doesn't that make your argument a little weak?

Secondly, why should I post an explanation every time? Sometimes, no explanation is necessary. If I explain the reason, it's a favor to you and a CYA tactic so that the victim is not so easily able to just go make up his own story about why he was banned. In this case, he is probably running around saying that I couldn't handle the truth and I'm a psycho bitch and I'm a Hitler-esque dictator, while I can post that he broke rules X, Y, and Z, and I allowed him to do so until he started making blatant threats to release RenGuard source. He obviously thought, in his anger, that I would cave to his threats and do what he wanted me to do, but I called his bluff. I went ahead and banned him and he sheepishly admitted a day or two later that he never had any intention of doing so.

The funny thing, though his actions easily warrant a permanent ban, he is in fact able to try again in about 27 days when his temporary ban expires.

Right..

Well im done here for this topic, compelling shit though!
