A little thought experiment here:

The USA is known as the biggest free speech country stuff thing. Lets see what would happen if you'd announce your going to blow up the white house or the pentagon(and theoretically have the means too). Do you seriously think they would just give you whatever you want? No of course they'd throw you in jail.

Something similar happened to fl00ded. You can say whatever you want on renforums, but threatening to release the renguard source means your out to harm the community. And since there is no prison, well crimson banned him.
