Yeah, well, I go to one of those schools. I'm one of those students who are "above and beyond" and gets like 100s on tests and things like that. A nerd, essentially. I see these other kids.. and it just makes me depressed how fucking retarded these people are. There's this one girl who talks in class a lot, gets horrible grades, and insists the teachers are too hard and too "boring." Even a somewhat sensitive(SOMEWHAT, I'm not of those squemish bastards that wants to censure video games.) guy like me thinks the teachers and tests are WAY too easy. If we had that voucher system.... I would be going to a good private school, and not have to deal with these stupid bastards(I'm swearing because I get bitter when I talk about this shit). That book needs to be given away for free or something at those damn teachers union rallys. It would help a lot. I bet 30% of those teachers from that video, especially the union leader, are bad, boring, dumb teachers. Sorry about the wall of text .
