Crimson wrote on Sat, 30 June 2007 10:05 I think you missed my point. I'm saying that even such a minor thing as voting on 1/7th's of a committee turns into people going off topic, people voting for their friends rather than their opinions, etc. But don't worry... with the people we have in the group, I have every confidence that we WILL come up with something that really works for us.

Now, if only dude at EA would finally send me the box of goodies he's been promising so I have prizes...

I didn't miss your point . Was just pointing out the danger of using this word around here .
