Out of curiosity does anybody know how many people have ever died from terrorism?

I think some people (Not giving names lol) are blowing this terrorism business way out of proportion.

All reigion in some way or the other promotes violence and that is why i think religion is a load of bullcrap.

Christianity has blood on it's hands (and it still does, not all christians are westerners), Islam has blood on it's hands. Almost all religions do.

Terrorism doesn't have a race or colour. Yet people are associating terrorism these days with "Islam" which makes me wonder if this war is really the "muslims vs christians" thing all over again.

Just my 2 cents anyways.
