I would call you dumb for letting someone with no logic what so ever use your laptop. Take my sister for example, she is the same "no logic what so ever" type and completely ruins everything she touches, even her computer. If we let her use it for more than a week the computer wont boot. I have an image of a fresh installation, with drivers of her HDD. So when she breaks it, i just restore it I do the same for my laptop, which people use if they want to check something downstairs and that breaks pretty often too

EDIT: Oh, and yes. Too much porn does break your computer.
