I think people know who I am and where I stand on the subject so I'm going to leave it at that.

Good guy though, nothing wrong with throwing some respect his way
I'm not saying he's a bad guy, it's just that it appears that he wants it so badly, and then someone says he isn't taking it that seriously. Somehow that doesn't add up imho.

I don't want it badly, I thought it would be a fun challenge and something I already have experience doing, so I'd give it a shot. I just approach it with the same easy-going attitude I face everything else with. There's nothing wrong with that, is there?
