St0rm's co-op isn't that hard to recreate. I know zunnie could recreate it easily. Hell, I may not have mastered all the scripts yet but I know I could recreate most of it.

I do agree that their Moderators are extremely corrupt and crooked. They all hate me over a trivial issue that occurred more than a year ago. They hated me for making alternate radio commands, and I know most servers don't like this anymore but that's not the point; they said I was spamming the commands when I wasn't even playing more than one command at a time. That term 'spamming the commands' sure slays the hell out of me because they're making no sense. So what happened in the end was they hated me and blamed everything bad on me (such as cheaters and spammers) and then I try and get even with them and that just made it worse >.< ...so I left (took me a few times because like one person would tell/invite me back; Wilo himself invited me back the first time but then paid me little attention and everyone still hated me so ya... you get the picture). So, I've never liked St0rm's staff ever again after that, I even tried to make amends (kindly and all) and they were too stubborn to even accept the apology. Who the fuck did they think they were? Well, certainly not God because I know He would accept the apology, but I bet they thought they were God with their powers and such. Those newbies...
